

Cookies Policy

The Company may make use of cookies and other technologies in some parts of its website. Cookies are defined as those files that store information on the customer's devices and allow the party that placed them on the device to recognize the customer on different websites, services, devices, and/or browsing sessions. These files can store the customer's login credentials so that he or she does not have to enter them each time he or she logs in to a service. The Company uses cookie technology to perform statistical tracking on its site, which tracks the cookie's path without, however, being able to know or identify the individual, who accessed the site, from this activity. Cookies do not store your personal email address or other private information. If you wish to disable the use of cookies, you must customize the settings on your computer by setting all cookies to be deleted or by enabling a warning message when cookies are stored. To proceed without changing the application of cookies, simply continue browsing.
